

Tips for Finding Your Soulmate

1

Look for Synchronicities

Synchronicities abound when soulmates are near! You will have multiple possible points-of-encounter when meeting a soulmate. Your paths may almost cross several times before you finally meet, and you may run into each other several times before initial contact. Many other seemingly magical coincidences will surround your connection with a soulmate.

Be Alert for Angel Numbers

Angel numbers (repeating numbers like 111, 222, 555, etc) are seen frequently before and after soulmate encounters (and during other spiritually significant times in life). 222 is a number set that is particularly associated with partnership. It may show up on clocks, car tags, confirmation numbers, bills, and other locations when soulmates are near.

3

Consult Your Astrology Charts

There is abundant evidence of past life or fated connections in the astrology charts of both people involved in a soulmate bond (of any type). This evidence usually involves the north or south node in either person's chart falling at a close degree to one of the other person's personal planets (sun, moon, Mars, Venus, or Mercury).

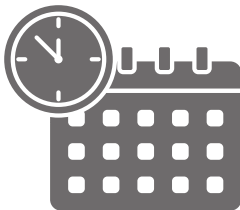

4

How Does It Feel?

Soulmates, both soulmate friends and soulmate lovers, feel different. There is a sense of instant connection and familiarity. Sometimes there is a perceptible electric charge between you, like an electric current running up your spine or a tingling sensation. Some people experience love at first sight because it really is not first sight at all, only a remembrance.

5

When Did They Arrive?

Soulmate friends, lovers, and partners often enter our lives at astrologically-significant times, such as full moons, new moons, equinoxes, solstices, or eclipses. Powerful days usher in powerful events in our lives. If a person arrives during one of these openings, pay attention. They may be a soulmate.
