General Coaching Policies

Hello, and welcome to my coaching practice!

I have a few policies I would like to invite us to share in our work together:

- Your Role: This is a mentorship/coaching experience. It is geared towards motivation, goal-achievement, education, professional development, & spiritual growth. There may be a bit of health and wellness coaching. This is not medical treatment. If you want to join my practice for psychotherapy and medical work, that may be possible, depending on the state/country where you reside. However, it is a different process (with different entry forms, costs, and procedures).
- Time & Place: Sessions last 60-90 minutes, depending on our unique plans and agreements. Currently, my practice is mobile, meaning I do most of my sessions virtually (using video conference). Occasionally, in-person sessions or custom retreats may be possible.
- Missed Sessions: Please provide a minimum of 24 hours (and ideally 48 hours) notice for appointments you wish to cancel/reschedule. Rescheduling is labor-intensive, so please try to keep the original appointments you make, if possible. If you are unable to provide 24 hours advance notice, I will need to bill you for the session. Extenuating circumstances/emergencies/illness will be considered. I generally send reminder emails the day or morning prior to appointments, but please set reminders for appointments, as well.
- Confidentiality: Similar to medical work, our sessions are confidential with the exception being if I think you are at imminent risk to harm yourself or another person. In this case, I am obligated to report this information. I keep brief computerized notes for each session. Their purpose is to keep me organized and track our progress. Coaching notes are not as well-protected by law as medical records, since patient-doctor confidentiality does not apply in non-medical relationships. For this reason, my notes include only a short summary of the session.
- Payment: Paypal, Venmo, Zelle, and credit card are accepted. Venmo and Paypal use my email: mysticmandala@gmail.com. Payment is expected in advance of the session (preferred) or in the 24-hours that follow. Payments 14 days late (the 15th day after the session) will accrue a $15 late charge. Late charge = $1/day following that. I will send a reminder before the late fee if a balance is unpaid. Many coaching clients have purchased a package. In these cases, payment is upfront. Sessions need to be used within 6 months of purchase.
- Phone Calls/Email: If you need to reach me urgently between sessions: 808-635-9485.
- For non-urgent messages, including rescheduling, please use my email: mysticmandala@gmail.com. Brief updates are welcome, but please save big discussions for in-person meetings. If you email and do not hear from me within about 12-24 hours, please resend.

By signing below you are acknowledging your receipt and understanding of these policies. You are also consenting to mentoring/coaching with me as a teacher/coach. Your well-being, spiritual growth, and professional success are now priorities in my life, and I will endeavor to offer information, exercises, and suggestions that I think are in your specific, best interest. You, of course, always have the right to choose to accept or reject any information, exercise, or idea I suggest. This is a collaborative process, and I trust and value your wisdom, choices, intuition, and input every step of the way.
